ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to a system and method for processing, organizing and accessing mission critical facilities information and intellectual property.

The system and method of the present invention comprises the steps of selectively gathering mission critical facilities data, providing a mechanism and procedure for inputting the information into the system, storing the data and then providing guaranteed and secure access to the information.